THE ALUMNI ALCOVE

The attention of the Alumni is called to the Alumni Alcove in the Seminary Library. This Alcove was established some years ago, and is intended to contain the publications of all those who have been students in Princeton Seminary, and thus be a visible and enduring monument of the large literary activity and influence of the sons of Princeton, who have done so much toward moulding and directing the Christian thought of this and other lands. It is believed that the Alumni will at once recognize the desirability of such a collection and the consequent desirability of making it as complete as possible. To this end they are earnestly requested to send to the Library their printed works, whether books, pamphlets or sermons. The receipt of these will be immediately and gratefully acknowledged, on behalf of the Library, by

J. H. DULLES,
Librarian.

ABSTRACT OF THE NECROLOGICAL REPORT

FOR 1921

The Report for the year ending March 31, 1921, contains notices of one of the Professors, the Rev. Benjamin Breckinridge Warfield, D.D., LL.D., Litt.D., and of seventy other former students of the Seminary. Nine of these died in previous years; but the fact of their death did not come to the attention of the Editor in time for an earlier Report.

Of the seventy-one former students, the oldest was the Rev. Samuel Spahr Laws, D.D., LL.D., of the class of 1851, who died at the age of ninety-six years and nine months, and was the oldest living alumnus. One other had passed his ninetieth year, eleven others their eightieth, twenty-five their seventieth and sixteen their sixtieth. The youngest died at the age of twenty-six years and nine months. The average age of the seventy-one was sixty-seven years, one month and twenty--four days. The average confessional age was sixteen years and eight months.

The Report contains the following names:

PROFESSOR

BENJAMIN BRECKINRIDGE WARFIELD, D.D., LL.D., Litt.D.

Son of William and Mary Cabell (Breckinridge) Warfield, was born Nov. 5, 1851, in Lexington, Ky. He made a public confession of his faith in the Second Presbyterian Church of Lexington at the age of sixteen. His preparatory studies were pursued in Lexington under the private tuition of James K. Patterson and he graduated from Princeton University in 1871. He spent the following year in travel in Europe, and the year after that as Live Stock Editor of the Farmers' Home Journal of Lexington. Entering the Seminary at Princeton in 1873, he took the full three years' course there, graduating in 1876. During the following year he took the winter semester in the University of Leipzig, Germany. He was licensed by the Presbytery of Ebenezer, May 8, 1875, and ordained an evangelist by the same Presbytery, April 26, 1879. He supplied the church of Concord, Ky., from June to August 1875; the First Church of Dayton, Ohio, from June to August 1876, and the First Church of Baltimore, Md., from November 1877 to March 1878. He was instructor in New Testament Literature and Exegesis in the Western Theological Seminary from 1878 until made professor in that department in 1879 and occupied this chair until 1887, when he was called to be professor of Didactic and Polemic Theology in Princeton Theological Seminary, and continued his work in this chair until his death, Feb. 16, 1921, in Princeton, of angina pectoris, in the 70th year of his age. He was buried in the Princeton Cemetery. He received the honorary degree of D.D. from Princeton University in 1880, that of LL.D. from the same University in 1892, and the same degree in the same year from Davidson College; the honorary degree of Litt.D. from Lafayette College in 1911 and the honorary degree of S.T.D. from the University of Utrecht in 1913. He was a voluminous writer for the religious press, most of his articles being published in the Presbyterian and Reformed Review and the Princeton Theological Review. He was the author of many books and pamphlets. Among his publications the following may be mentioned: The Divine Origin of the Bible, 1882; Introduction to the Textual Criticism of the New Testament, 1886; Augustine's Anti-Pelagian Treatises, 1887; The Idea of Systematic Theology, 1888; On the Revision of the Confession of Faith, 1890; The Canon of the New Testament, 1892; The Gospel of the Incarnation, 1893; Two Studies in the History of Doctrine, 1897; The Significance of the Westminster Standards, 1898; Acts and the Pastoral Epistles of the Temple Bible, 1902; The Power of God unto Salvation, 1903; The Lord of Glory, 1907; Calvin as a Theologian and Calvinism To-day, 1909; Hymns and Religious Verses, 1910; How Shall be Baptize?, 1911; The Saviour of the World, 1914; The Plan of Salvation, 1915; Faith and Life, 1916; Counterfeit Miracles, 1918.

He was married Aug. 3, 1876, in Lexington, Ky., to Annie Pearce Kinkead, who died Nov. 19, 1915.

ALUMNI

SAMUEL SPAHR LAWS, D.D., LL.D., M.D.,

Son of the Rev. James and Rachel (Spahr) Laws, was born March 23, 1824, in Ohio County, Virginia. He made a public confession of his faith in the Second Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, Mo., at the age of sixteen. His early studies were in a log schoolhouse in the mountains of Virginia, in a night school in St. Louis, Mo., and with a private teacher. He graduated from Miami University as valedictorian in 1848, and was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society. He later received the degree of LL.B. from the Law Department of Columbia University in 1870 and the degre of M.D. from Bellevue Medical College in 1875. He entered the Seminary at Princeton in 1848, taking the full three years' course there and graduating in 1851.
